President's Message

- Jesse Takahashi

Summer is just around the corner!

By now, many of us are in the final stages of getting our budgets adopted and preparing for the new fiscal year. Many more of us are also preparing to close out the current fiscal year and get ready for the year-end audits. Somewhere in between these processes, I hope many of you are also making plans for your summer vacations—that all too short period of time when we can think about things other than the multitude of issues of our daily routines at work. Whether our plans involve traveling abroad, across the country or a trip to Disneyland (you should actually defer a Disneyland trip until next March), I hope it will involve spending some quality time with your family and making some good memories along the way. As finance professionals, we dedicate plenty of time to the public service and our profession. This is a good season to spend time on our personal endeavors and recharge our batteries. Whatever you do, may it be a good time for you! CONTINUE READING...

Executive Director's Message

Melissa Dixon, CAE

I had to go to Disneyland. For work. No really, it was for work!

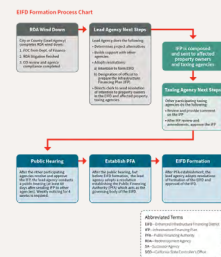

When you say these things to friends and colleagues, they always look skeptical. Maybe it's because you shouldn't be able to have so much fun and still call it 'work'? This was the case, though, at the first in-person meeting of the 2016 Annual Conference Host Committee.

GASB 68 IS UPON US – BUT THERE IS HELP!

By Brent Mason, Finance Director/Treasurer, City of Riverside, CA

As most, if not all, of you know, this June 30 is when GASB 68 is required to be implemented. In case you've just been un "cryogenically frozen" or "unavailable" the last couple years, this is the new standard that radically changes the manner in which governmental entities will account for pension expense and the related liability. It will require a very substantive effort on the part of financial statement preparers to implement the new requirements...even understanding the "new jargon" will be a challenge!
